

Grotefeld Hoffmann

Press Release

January 1, 2021 – Grotefeld Hoffmann is pleased to announce the elevation of Jordan Everakes to partner. Mr. Everakes works in the firm’s San Francisco, California office. He currently focuses his practice on civil litigation matters involving insurance subrogation and recovery, torts, products liability, contracts, and wild land fire cases. In addition, Mr. Everakes has extensive experience representing clients in all aspects of the litigation process, including trial experience wherein he received a defense jury trial verdict in a premises liability action. Mr. Everakes has extensive experience litigating in both state and federal court on behalf of plaintiffs and defendants involving vehicle accidents, construction defect, real estate, landlord & tenant matters, and toxic torts.

Mr. Everakes is licensed to practice law in California and is admitted to practice in several United States District Courts throughout the state. Prior to joining Grotefeld Hoffmann, he attended the University of California, Santa Barbara and graduated with honors in 2004, earning his Bachelor of Arts degree in Political Science. Mr. Everakes earned his Juris Doctor from Southwestern Law School in 2007, where he was a member of the Journal of Law and Trade of the Americas. Mr. Everakes was also a recipient of the American Board of Trial Advocacy (ABOTA) fellowship.
